

GENEVA PEACEBUILDING PLATFORM: PROGRAMME FOR 2024

MARCH 2024

I. EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

This Programme outlines the core pillars that structure the work of the Geneva Peacebuilding Platform (GPP) and details activities for 2024. It highlights key advancements within the organization and offers strategic direction for the year ahead.

Building on its history, the programme of work of the GPP is built on three core pillars:

PILLAR I: FACILITATION

Offering space and facilitation to discuss current issues and foster innovation in peacebuilding practice and leadership in Switzerland.

This first pillar is based on the exceptional network of hundreds of peacebuilding actors the GPP has been able to build over the years, both in Geneva and internationally. It supports the continuous exchange about current or innovative peacebuilding issues and practices, notably by organising meetings of experts, of state representatives, members of intergovernmental organisations, civil society or think tanks. It also provides for a platform to collect the Geneva perspective on various international policy processes relating to peacebuilding.

This pillar's goal is to remain agile and attuned to the pulse of peacebuilding, putting the Platform's convening power at the service of the peacebuilding community. Hosting and facilitating ad hoc meetings or recurring small-group conversations allows space for the incubation of new ideas in Geneva.

PILLAR II. COMMUNITY MANAGEMENT

Strengthening the GPP core community, and allowing its voice to resonate in Geneva and beyond.

Community management is the intentional process of creating activities and spaces through which professionals in Geneva can connect with one another, share knowledge, and develop collaborative work around specific themes. The GPP core community is the International Advisory Council. In addition, in 2024, the GPP will act as the liaison bureau of the Maison de la Paix, with a view of offering an additional window of visibility and possibility of activity coordination of the institutional actors working on peace issues based in the building.

PILLAR III: GENEVA PEACE WEEK

Confirming Geneva Peace Week as the leading international forum for governmental, institutional and civil society peacebuilders.

The third pillar of the GPP upholds Geneva Peace Week as the Platform's flagship activity. It is closely interwoven with the first and second pillar and builds on the GPP strength as a convening power and its strong peacebuilding community management. By combining continuity with strategy development, the Platform aims to leverage additional synergies between the work streams. By constantly networking and convening throughout the year (Pillar I) and by mobilizing different constituencies towards an annual flagship moment (Geneva Peace Week, Pillar III), the Platform will stimulate thought leadership around the next generation of peacebuilding questions and build partnerships for finding responses to them (Pillar II).
